Known

SHOT DURING SCUFFLE

One Bullet Entered Body;
The Other Passed
Through

By International News Service
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 — An inquest into the shooting of John Brennan, 38, Bristol hardware merchant, will be held in Philadelphia within "the next 10 days or two weeks."

Philadelphia Coroner Joseph Ominsky told International News Service that the full details of the autopsy performed on the victim's body will be made available at that time.

Ominsky said that two bullets were discharged. One was found in the victim's body and the other passed through it.

Ominsky remarked: "Unofficially, it appears the bullets were fired during the course of a scuffle."

Brennan died in Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, early Sunday morning after he was shot during a scuffle with Bristol police officer John Sackville.

Police said that at the time of the shooting Brennan and Sackville were wrestling for possession of the officers' service revolver.

Four brothers-in-law of John Brennan, 38, bore his body to its resting place in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Frackville, this morning, following the singing of solemn requiem mass in Holy Rosary R. C. Church, at Mahanoy Plane at 10 o'clock.

Announce Examination
For "Sub" Clerk-Carrier

The Director, Third U. S. Civil Service Region, Customs House, 2nd and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, has announced an examination for substitute clerk-carrier for duty at Bristol, Pa. Persons hired as a result of this examination will be given indefinite appointments only and will not thereby acquire permanent civil service status.

The initial basis rate of pay for substitutes in first- and second-class post offices is $1.61½ an hour. Applicants must actually reside within the delivery of the post office or be a bona fide patron of such office. Persons now employed in the post office will be considered bona fide patrons.

There are no experience requirements for this examination, but applicants must pass a written test. Because the use of motor vehicles is required in city delivery service, no person will be certified for appointment as substitute carrier who is unable to drive an automobile.

Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 50 and citizens of or owe allegiance to the United States to apply for this position. Age limits will be waived for veterans.

Applications for this examination must be received in the Third U. S. Civil Service Regional Office not later than the close of business on November 29th.

Interested persons may obtain further information and the necessary application forms from the Commission's Local Secretary, located at Bristol, Pa., or from the Director, Third U. S. Civil Service Region, 103-A Customs House, Philadelphia 6.

2 PENNA. CITIES ARE USED AS "GUINEA PIGS"

Wilkes-Barre and Scranton
Plagued by Unemployment
Amidst Prosperity

HAVE LABOR SURPLUS

In the second of three articles, International News Service herewith tells how planning and foresight are helping to lift some Pennsylvania cities from depressed areas to self-sufficient ones.

By Anthony Zeeva
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 — (INS) — Two Pennsylvania cities, plagued for years by unemployment amidst prosperity, are emerging from depression today by serving as guinea pigs in a unique Government experiment.

The experiment, first of its kind in the nation, is in essence a "domestic Marshall Plan." It simply means that these areas are slated for job-giving defense contracts if they can show the ability to fulfill them.

It can now be reported that "Operation Prospecting" — made up of a task force of federal, state, military and local officials — has discovered something akin to acres of diamonds in the backyards of the depressed areas.

Proving grounds for the experiment were Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, listed as Class Four areas with a "substantial labor surplus."

Portrayed in Films

NEWTOWN, Nov. 21 — Mrs. William H. Yerkes was hostess to the members of the Bucks County chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at her home, "Nonesuch Farm" at Buckingham, Monday, with 22 members and guests present.

Miss Elise de la Cova, junior membership chairman, showed a motion picture of the Kate Duncan school in Gunter Mountain, Ga., a day school supported entirely by the D. A. R. The library building is the project of Penna. chapters. Used clothing was collected to be sent to the school.

Mrs. William V. Loughery, regent, presided at the meeting.

Tea was served, the following assisting Mrs. Yerkes: Mrs. J. C. Esilton, Mrs. Carlile Hobensack, Mrs. Thomas Devlin, Mrs. Franklin Linton, Mrs. David Taylor and Mrs. Franklin Washburn.

MILITARY HONORS TO BE ACCORDED SOLDIER

Rites for Pfc. Harold L.
Adams Arranged For Saturday

ALSO PLAN MEMORIAL

HULMEVILLE, Nov. 21 — Military honors are to be accorded on Saturday at the funeral of Pfc. Harold L. Adams, who was killed in action in Korea, on February 13, 1951. Military honors will be in charge of Jesse W. Soby Post, No. 148, American Legion.

The service, scheduled for two o'clock Saturday afternoon, will be held at the Faust funeral home, Bellevue and Fairview avenues, here. The Rev. Lewis D. Moore, a member of Soby Post, will officiate. Burial is to take place in Beechwood Cemetery.

Relatives and friends may call at the funeral home Friday evening from seven to nine o'clock; and at eight that evening the Soby post will conduct a memorial service there.

Adams, a member of Headquarters Company, 38th Infantry, U. S. Army, met death at Hoengsong, Korea, while his company was running a road-block. The young man, 21 years of age, resided with his father at Hulmeville Park for the past 10 years. Born in Philadelphia, he was the son of William Adams, Jr., and the late Alice E. (nee Swager). Pfc. Adams attended Hulmeville public school. He enlisted at the age of 17 years for a three year period, and served for OXFORD VALLEY, Nov. 21 — Death by asphyxiation was narrowly escaped last night by two men overcome by gas while taking showers in a small cabin at Scheibel's Trailer Park on Route 1, near the Tail-Gate Diner.

According to Scheibel, the cabin in which the showers are located is not for the use of the trailer occupants.

Bucks County Rescue Squad members and Falls Township police worked over Wayne Darnell and John Strohl, both 23, for more than two hours before the men regained consciousness.

According to Falls township police, the men entered the cabin at 7:15 p. m. to take showers. They were not discovered until 9 o'clock, when Mrs. Leona Strohl, wife of one of the men, and William Breaaly, of Bristol, opened the steam-filled cabin and dragged out the apparently lifeless bodies.

Officers Julius Meszarar and Joseph Kish said the gas hot water

COUNSEL IS RETAINED

Group Will Meet Again On Tuesday Evening To Consider Action

WHEATSHAEF, Nov. 21 — The Bucks County Trailer and Small Homes Association was organized here last night, according to T. Sidney Cadwallader, temporary chairman.

Purpose of the organization, Cadwallader said, is to fight out a test case involving trailer restrictions instituted recently by Joseph N. Viesz, operator of a trailer park here, where the group met.

Cadwallader, counsel for Viesz, said the group will meet at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Catherine Gallagher of Route 1, Oxford Valley, Falls Township, "to discuss ways in which fair zoning codes can be instituted where they do not now exist."

The group formed a seven-member committee to establish principles for the new organization. Members include: David Miller, Viesz, George C. Lee, Joseph R. Cutchinal, William Rafferty, Leonard Ridge and Mrs. Gallagher.

About 25 attended the meeting, including 15 operators of trailer camps.

New Motor Corps Chairman
Is Named for This Area

The monthly meeting of the American Red Cross, Bristol district, was held at headquarters on Monday. Mrs. D. Barker Cook presided.

Mrs. Vernon Summers was introduced as the new motor corps chairman. This service, a new one in this area, is now being formed and Mrs. Summers is anxious for new members to serve with her.

Due to increased demands for blood for the armed forces, and the higher quota of blood expectancy for lower Bucks county, extensive plans for "Bloodmobile" visits, both community and industrial, are being planned.

A request has been received from the federal hospitals for afghans for the armed forces. These afghans are of a standard size, 4x6 feet, which takes 176 knitted squares, 4½ inches square. These 4½ inch squares are acceptable, as well as the completed afghans. Anyone who wishes to take this opportunity to help the boys is asked to leave completed work at the Red Cross office, 435 Radcliffe street.

DR. FRANCIS B. HAAS, STATE SUP'T
OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, TOURS
LOWER BUCKS COUNTY AREA

Sees at First Hand the Industrial and Population Growth
Now Taking Place in This Area — Gets First-Hand
Information About Enrollment Increase in Schools.

The top-man of Pennsylvania's school system, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Francis B. Haas, yesterday toured Lower Bucks County for a firsthand glimpse at the world's most sensational case of growing pains—industrial and population growth in the area at an almost explosive rate of speed.

He saw the show from beginning to end—saw the fantastic operation of sliding together the jig-saw pieces of the multi-million dollar new enterprise known as the Fairless Plant of the U. S. Steel Company; saw two great new modern high school units which, not yet fully open, already are beginning to slip behind in their race with enrollment; saw the two rival new cities, Fairless Hills and Levittown, where farmland is sprouting, dwelling in thousand-house units.

He saw one of the oldest and much the newest one-room schools in Bucks County: the little octagonal stone structure built south of Penn's Park more than a century and a half ago, and the spang-new pre-fab house converted into an emergency school to accommodate the first influx of youngsters into Fairless Hills—and teachers and pupils alike agree that for comfort, light, heat and conveniences there's never been a school quite equal to the temporary Fairless Hills building.

Dr. Haas made the tour as the guest of Charles H. Boehm, Bucks County Superintendent of Schools. Also making the trip were the Deputy State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. C. Herman Grose; H. Franklin Moore, of Perkasie, president of the Bucks County Board of School Directors; and State Representative Marvin V. Keller, of Newtown.

Acting as hosts for the group in various school districts were: J. Edward Smith, regional superintendent of the Doylestown area; Medill Bair, regional superintendent of the Pottsville area; Oliver S. Heckman, regional superintendent of the Nesheim schools; and Walter D. Miller, superintendent of the Bristol Township schools.

Dr. Haas and Dr. Grose met the party at the county superintendent's offices in Doylestown, and one of the first steps was a complete inspection of the two small buildings used as the county headquarters. These have been fitted out into a schoolman's dream, with all of the up-to-the-minute facilities for large and small conferences on

SEVEN CIVIL ACTIONS
FILED AT DOYLESTOWN

Include Two Auto Damage
Suits, Morrisville and Perkasie Motorists

1 ASSUMPSIT ACTION

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 21 — Seven civil court actions, including two automobile damage suits involving Morrisville and Perkasie motorists, have been filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

George Jones, Pineville, in an action in assumpsit, has named the defendant by Terry-Gerberon Co., 1900 Grant avenue, Philadelphia, which is claiming $872.83 with interest since Oct. 1, 1950. The suit grows out of house building materials.

Paul Steffan, West Rockhill township, in an action in assumpsit, has named Fidelity & Deposit Company of Maryland the defendant in a $600 claim, growing out of a financial transaction dated Sept. 11, 1950.

Ray R. Ramsey, 414 North 8th street, Perkasie, in an action in trespass, has been named the defendant in a $380.52 claim by Laura Allison, 132 North 9th street, Quakertown. The claim grows out of a collision Aug. 13, in Perkasie, when Allison was driving east on Seventh street, and the defendant south on Buttonwood.

Manfred G. Hirschberg, 6213 Shebourne street, Philadelphia, in an action in assumpsit, has named William J. Patterson, Hulmeville, as defendant.

CONFINED TO LAUNDRY

Fire, caused by a small oil heating stove at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Randall F. Yeagle, Orchard avenue, Bath Addition, this morning, gutted the laundry, ruined contents of the same, and caused two individuals to have narrow escapes from burns.

The blaze is believed to have been caused when one of the Yeagle children tampered with the stove while playing in the laundry. According to Mrs. Yeagle her son, "Joey", 5½, ran to her at about 9:30 with information that "I've put something in the stove." Ivey is 2½ years old.

Rushing to the laundry, Mrs. Yeagle found the waste basket and items nearby ablaze. Calling for "Joey" to summon George P. Bailey, who resides nearby, Mrs. Yeagle hastily secured a bucket of water. Using this and a blanket she at

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

If the Republicans make foreign policy and "our program for world peace" issues in the 1952 campaign they "will be overwhelmingly" defeated, President Truman said yesterday. "Partisan politics," he added, "ought to stop at the water's edge." Addressing the Women's National Democratic Club in Washington, he predicted a huge "slush fund" would back a Republican campaign of "misrepresentation" and use of the "big doubt." He promised that Democrats would not "take that kind of attack lying down" or "run away from a fight."

Foreign policy was debated in two European Parliaments. British Laborites expressed disapproval of American policies and Washington's leadership in world affairs. The French Assembly gave the Plevien Government a close vote of confidence on its proposed program of contributions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at a heavy sacrifice in domestic economy. In Rome, the North Atlantic military heads were said to have agreed that a United States admiral should command naval forces, with a British admiral to head a separate North Sea and English Channel command.

Korean truce negotiators met at Panmunjom for the Communist reply to the Allies' newest proposal. A Peiping broadcast had said that "if both sides make an effort a full armistice agreement could be concluded within thirty days of settlement" of a cease-fire line. The enemy kept up futile attempts to gain ground.

Approximately 6,000 American soldiers may be presumed to have met "death by atrocity" at Communist hands, General Ridgway said. The Eighth Army officer who had released the atrocity figures did not have authority to make such a report, General Ridgway said.

Soviet newspapers criticized the West's disarmament plan; debate in a United Nations Assembly committee was deferred. An American military plane with diplomatic cargo lost its way over Yugoslavia and was missing after having been fired on by Hungarian and Rumanian border guards.

Despite a drop in consumer goods industries, 46,800,000 persons were at work at nonfarm jobs in mid-October.

BUCKS COUNTY SAFETY
COUNCIL IS FORMED

County Has 166 Fatalities
During A Period of
Five Years

CAMPAIGN IS NOW ON

The Bucks County Safety Council formally organized in Doylestown recently.

Declaring that Bucks county over a five-year period had 166 motor fatalities, 1,403 persons crippled for life and 5,614 who were injured but recovered, Fred L. Barrows, assistant manager of the Philadelphia Safety Council, speaking at the meeting, said: "Traffic safety is everybody's business and we must conduct a campaign against accidents."

Speaking to about 50 persons, representing industry, the schools, Granges, automobile dealers, PTA, Pennsylvania Railroad, District Attorney's office and others, Barrows said a county safety council must be non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political and non-commercial.

"It must cooperate with all other

WOMAN HURT IN CRASH

Bucks County Rescue Squad reports the following: John Koweski, Bridgewater, taken to Abington Hospital yesterday; Mrs. C. Kring, 1919 Wilson avenue, returned home from Muffets Nursing Home, Croyston; Mrs. Madelyn Halahan, Cornwells Heights, to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia; Mrs. Louisa Bohm, 73, Chickenfoot road, Middletown township, to Nazareth Hospital. Mrs. Bohm was injured in an automobile accident at 10 last night at Woodbourne road and U. S. Route 1, when a vehicle in which she was a passenger collided with a tractor trailer, according to the squad. Mrs. Bohm was thrown from the vehicle, and sustained an incised wound on the back of the head and body bruises.

Capture Man Charged With Slaying Phila. Girl

Salisbury, Md.—State police in Salisbury today captured a man charged with fatally shooting a Philadelphia girl five times last night at her doorstep. The suspect was identified as James Copeland, 39, a truck driver of Nassawadox, Va. Police said Marian Embry, 23, a laundry worker, was slain when the killer whipped out a pistol during an argument.

Reds Agree "In Principle" to Peace Plan

Munsan—The Communists agreed "in principle" today to the Allied peace-by-Christmas plan but urged in a counter-proposal that the Korean war be kept going only at long range until a cease fire is ordered. Allied leaders have insisted that a full armistice be achieved before the fighting is halted. They suspected there may be a "joker" in the latest Red proposal, designed to bring what the Allied side feels would be a premature end to the shooting.

Mother and Uncle En Route to Identify Girl's Body

New Boston, N. ### THANKSGIVING

That first Thanksgiving observed by the Pilgrim Fathers more than three centuries ago expressed gratitude, primarily, for the abundant harvest that had crowned their labors after the bitter winter in which they had fought against the wilderness and the savage, but it was the love of freedom that had brought them here, and so long as a vestige of freedom endures Americans will have ample reason for observing their annual festival.

Wave after wave of hardy pioneers pushed back the frontiers as the course of empire took its way westward until today there are no more free lands to lure the restless adventurers, and in certain circles it has become the pattern to fall back upon the counsels of despair by assuming that the American people have nothing to look forward to except wars and taxes.

But these exponents of gloom forget there are no frontiers to the human mind and the ingenuity of man, spurred by new visions, is not to be permanently frustrated.

Creature needs and comforts seem trivial in comparison with the continued enjoyment of that freedom which has been increasingly denied among the unhappy peoples in many lands. With sorrow and sympathy we see many of them in a bondage worse than death. Under an alien and ignoble rule, they drag out a desolate existence, seeking in vain for something which justifies them in giving thanks.

This nation is making heavy sacrifices in Korea while it builds the barriers against the evil overlords whose lust for power and riches scans new horizons.

But the American people have lost none of the rugged courage which carried the fathers through their dark pilgrimage and gave them so much to be thankful for as they sat down to their rude but cheerful feast on a stern and rock-bound coast.

DEEMPHASIS AT YALE

Deemphasis of college football seems to be on the way. No one can say how far it will go, since it's just getting a start and there's a long, long trail to retrace if the game is to be restored to anything resembling an amateur sport. But some progress is being made in that direction.

At Yale the athletic control board has voted to abolish spring football practice. The vote, taken on September 15, was kept secret for some obscure reason, but the press as usual got the news, and Yale's proxy felt compelled to confirm it.

The decision, Athletic Director Robert A. Hall felt called upon to say, is "not a step toward the liquidation of football." Yale believes as firmly as it ever did that football is a deserving sport and a worthwhile extracurricular activity. But it has been studying the problem of out-of-season athletic schedules with a view to adjusting them "to the best interests of the players." Presumably, such an adjustment has now been made with respect to football.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1951
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 — The political imprint of boss Tom Pendergast of Missouri is still visible today in most Democratic strongholds across the country.

There is, in fact, a precedent for almost every case of graft, corruption or influence peddling that is being exposed daily. All of them are from the same political cesspool that existed in the midwest during the 1930's. Kansas city was the training school and President Truman one of the graduates.

Mr. Truman took his oath of office as a U. S. Senator on March 4, 1935. He would never have made it without the help of Pendergast and John Lazia. Lazia was boss Tom's chief lieutenant, in charge of the north side Kansas city ward that rolled a big vote for the new senator. Lazia was all bad. Just how bad was, by a strange coincidence, the subject of a remark made by the then Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr. On the exact day Mr. Truman took his oath of office, Morgenthau said:

"When I came to the treasury there were five famous gangsters on the intelligence unit's list of 'men to get.' One by one they have been eliminated—John Lazia, the Al Capone of Kansas City; Leon Gleckman, leading racketeer of St. Paul; Waxey Gordon, of New York, leading beer baron of the east; Murray Humphreys, of Chicago, successor to Al Capone; and Dutch Schultz, of New York."

By "eliminated," Morgenthau meant that Lazia was convicted of income tax fraud. Later on, of course, he had a falling out with the Kansas city gunmen and was eliminated permanently. But it was during his income tax troubles that the politicians went to work for him.

The natural thing for Pendergast to do was to seek a political cure for Lazia's troubles. It was exactly the same sort of thing the Democrats are doing today, as the ailing ex-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, William M. Boyle, Jr. well knows. The procedure was refined somewhat by the time Boyle graduated from the Pendergast school and attained the national chairmanship, but he had in his office files a handy reference to what was expected of him. It is a Pendergast letter, written on Lazia's behalf. And except for the difference in names and dates it might be a carbon copy of all of the letters still being mailed to Washington whenever an administration lieutenant gets caught with his hand in the till.

James Farley was chairman of the Democratic National Committee when Pendergast wrote to him in 1933. The letter represents a political creed that erupts in bureau of internal revenue and Reconstruction Finance Corporation scandals almost hourly. It went like this:

"Dear Jim: Jerome Walsh and John Lazia will be in Washington to see you about the matter I had Mr. Kemper talk to you about. Now Jim, Lazia is one of my chief lieutenants and I am more sincerely interested in his welfare than anything you will be able to do for me now or in the future. He has been in trouble with the income tax department for some time. I know it is simply a case of being jobbed because of his Democratic activities. I think that Frank Walsh spoke to the proper authorities about this. In any event, I wish you would use your utmost endeavor to bring about a settlement of this matter. I cannot make it any stronger than to say that my interest in him is greater than anything that might come up in the future."

Lazia then was under sentence to federal prison on income tax evasion charges. Farley had grown up in a fairly rough school of politics himself, but this was too much for him. He filed the letter away and did nothing about it. Lazia eventually was murdered while his case was still pending on appeal. As a political primer, however, the letter is just as good today as when it was written. It is the natural expression of a Pendergast politician, including the one who is President of the United States.

CROYDON

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary on Sunday. They enjoyed a trip to Hellertown, where they visited the "Lost Cave." Their son, Ellsworth, accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cooper and children Janet, Frances and Ora, Philadelphia, had Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gindhart, Pennsylvania avenue.

RAZING BUILDINGS

EMILIE, Nov. 21—Work of razing the house, two large barns and some smaller sheds on the farm occupied until this week by Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Shoemaker, Oxford Valley-Tullytown road, got underway yesterday. The contract was awarded to Luciano Brothers, Tullytown. Workmen started demolishing the two-story frame house yesterday, and expect to have it entirely razed by 4:30 this afternoon. Part of the larger barn has also been removed. "All of the work will be completed within three days," a spokesman for Luciano Brothers stated this morning. Some of the lumber is being re-sold, and some will be retained by the contractors for their own use. The razing of the buildings is in preparation for levelling of the ground to make way for part of the Levittown development.

heater in the cabin had been extinguished by steam.

The victims were taken to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., in the Bucks County Rescue Squad ambulance, where resuscitation was continued until they became conscious.

Mrs. Eva Darnell, wife of one of the men, said that it was the first time her husband had used the shower since they arrived on Saturday. They live in a trailer at the park with their two children, Robert, 4, and Donald, 3.

Mrs. Leona Strohl, wife of John Strohl, said they had only used the cabin shower twice since moving into the park some time ago. She explained that her family usually bathed in trailers equipped with showers until they were told about the unused cabin.

Both men are employed at the Robertson Art Tile Company, Pennsylvania avenue, Morrisville.

PRAISE AND THANKS

With grateful praise and contrite hearts,
Our thanks to Thee we give
Dear Lord, our Father and our King,
For this life we live.

And on this special day we stand
Midst all Thy wealth and store,
In solemn thought at Thy great gifts,
Which reach from shore to shore.

Abundant measure Thou hast given
To all earth's children dear,
With great and mighty promises,
No child of Thine should fear.

This day, dear Lord, we praise Thy works,
Thy name be glorified,
May we, Thy children, giving thanks,
Be wholly sanctified.

To things above life's sordid ways,
To things that are divine,
That this day, Lord, and every day,
Be sacred and sublime.

2 Penna. Cities Are Used As "Guinea Pigs"

local officials and Army, Navy and Air Force procurement officers directly to the trouble spots and made an exhaustive study of all idle machinery.

"The results were amazing," reported one task force official. "We found many idle and potentially idle machines that could be turning out defense materials, but for the fact that the owners didn't know how to go about getting contracts and subcontracts."

He added:
"At Scranton, 88 firms were represented at the clinic, and negotiations were started for a subcontract of some $500,000 from the Kaiser Company to the U. S. Textile Machinery Plant. We also found a number of very fine facilities which we placed on the bidders' list for defense contracts, and who should get work."

The results were even brighter in the Wilkes-Barre area, the spokesman said. He related:

"We had 95 firms represented there, and our Air Force people 'discovered' the Medico-Electric Motor Co. of Pittston and found it capable of doing some of their work. Right then and there, we contacted the Wright Aeronautical Co. in Woodbridge, N. J., and made arrangements over the telephone for negotiations of a five million dollar subcontract."

"We also made provisions that second-tier subcontracts must be let in the area."

Lennon explained: "In our guns-and-butter program, we can't afford to have any idle machinery or depressed areas. The nation's industrial capacity must be placed on an even keel without extremes of want or plenty."

He lauded the prospecting operations as one which may ultimately take those areas from the "critical" brand to places of "stable economy."

One of the task force members gave what he termed a typical example of how some industries could be bolstered by the program.

"One employer, with a good plant and skilled labor was making eight consumer units a day," he explained. "However, the controlled materials plan cut his allocations 50 per cent, and he was going to lay off workers and go out of business."

because he had to turn out at least six units daily for a profit.

"But at the clinic, the Signal Corps found he has perfect facilities to do work for them. Thus, he will be able to negotiate a contract for defense goods for which he will get the necessary materials, and also continue with his halved consumer units, in keeping with the guns and butter policy."

The spokesman pointed out that in many cases "the great difficulty with manufacturers is that they fail to recognize the capability of their machinery in manufacturing other items."

Success of the experiment is being analyzed in Washington by defense officials who are receiving inquiries from throughout the nation on the "Pennsylvania Plan."

Commerce Department officials in Philadelphia have been flooded with requests for information from planning groups and industries throughout the State, including Reading, North Wales, Chester, Pottstown, Rehersburg, Troy, Franklin, Tamaqua, Lewisburg and others.

It is improbable that task forces will be sent to all needy areas as in the case of Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, but Lennon urged localities to take inventory of their machines themselves, and report to the Commerce Department officials who will advise them on methods of putting them to use in the defense program.

(Tomorrow: How much is Pennsylvania producing for defense and for civilian consumption, and what would happen if the partial mobilization became "all-out"?)

Secretary Smock Dies Suddenly

of illness during his eight-minute talk.

Mr. Smock had been associated with the State Highway Department since 1942, when he was appointed to the post of assistant secretary by Senator Edward Martin, then Governor, who promoted him to Secretary of Highways in 1946. He was reappointed by Gov. John S. Pine when the latter assumed office.

Mr. Smock, born in Greenwood township, Crawford county, was a resident of Meadville, where he moved in 1909. At that time he obtained a job as foreman in a local construction company. Three years later he assisted in the organization of the Keystone Construction Co. with which he was associated for 21 years.

He served as Register and Recorder of Deeds for Crawford county for two terms and was re-elected in 1941 for a third term. He resigned that elective office when Governor Martin asked him to serve as Assistant Secretary of Highways. He had been chairman of the Crawford County Republican Committee since 1930.

He was married to the former Grace Kightlinger. Their three sons served in the armed forces during the Second World War.

On his tour of highways in Bucks County Monday Secretary Smock was accompanied by State Senator Edward E. Watson, of Doylestown, and by E. L. Schmidt, the Highway Department's Chief Engineer, and Edwin J. Kinney, a district engineer for the Department.

TELEPHONE EXPANSION WON'T WAIT FOR BARGAINS

Today the demand for telephone service, both civilian and military, is at an all-time high.

It's our job to provide service wherever it's wanted in our territory, and as quickly as possible too.

This means we can't put off expansion on the chance that some day prices of telephone equipment may go down. We can't wait for bargains. We must keep building.

That's why we're buying more wire, cable, poles, switchboards and other equipment than ever before... even though wire costs 96% more than it did in 1940, cable 100%, poles 119%, trucks 140%, buildings over 100%. And so it goes, with almost every item.

In spite of this, we've been able to provide good, low-cost telephone service that keeps on growing in value, day by day.

Telephone service could cost more than it does and still, in comparison with other things, be a big, big bargain.

Dr. Haas Tours Lower Bucks County Area

the problems of the county's 21,000 pupils and teaching staff of 926.

Thereafter the Bucks County Superintendent went over with the Harrisburg officials all phases of the local problem—from the points of view of enrollment, economic background, rate of expansion, tax and assessment phases, difficulties of getting contractors for school buildings, etc., etc.

With the aid of maps, he showed how the huge steel plant, which is twice the size of the original installation at Gary, Indiana, fits into the sharp bend of the Delaware River due south of Trenton—occupying land never used before for anything except farming, and lying well outside the area's main lines of commerce and transportation; how the two new communities now being built to house the steel plant workers are going up in farm pastures and woodlots, partly cut off from easy access to the steel plant by the large lakes where gravel has been removed, and relying at the present for transportation on narrow and inadequate farm-type secondary roads.

Reference was made to new shopping and commercial centers planned as parts of these developments —business focuses which may seriously rival the existing centers in the area.

One which has been pushed with some urgency is a proposed shopping center in Morrisville, and another much discussed is a wholly new administrative center and commercial section on the banks of the artificially created Lake Caroline in Fairless Hills.

Nearest of these proposed business centers shortly to be built is a strip of more than a thousand feet on New Route 13 back of Tullytown, at the intersection with Oxford Valley Road, which is designated as the main commercial zone of the Levittown area and which, if it follows the pattern of similar centers in the Levittown enterprise on Long Island, will have large stores of all variety—drugstores, haberdasheries, specialty shops, and possibly even branch outlets of the Philadelphia and New York department stores.

Aided by the maps, the group went over the manner in which the big capital improvements fall, in many cases, outside the political units which have the major new problems placed upon their shoulders.

The Borough of Tullytown, for example, will eventually receive a huge new population with need for large school expansion, and will also be a major crossroads in the new communities, yet will not for years gain taxable assets to carry this burden.

Bristol township, already having far-outgrown its school facilities, is to get the first of the Levittown units, about 1,000 houses, with a presumable population of 4,000, which will mean an additional school population estimated at 400. Yet none of the steel plant development is in Bristol Township, and therefore none of the tax revenues from it will help Bristol Township with its new burden.

Possible solutions were discussion—consolidations of school districts, or even of political units; certain other forms of cooperation; emergency area measures which might require new legislation; various other expedients.

Forecasts of the future growth of the county were gone over. On the basis of plans already made, and being carried out by steps, Fairless Hills already has 1,000 homes and is to get 3,000 more, with a presumable population of 16,000 or better; Levittown plans, now in the first stage, call for a total of 15,000 homes and a population of 60,000. No possible means exist for estimating the number of homes which will be built individually or in small groups, but they easily could add thousands more to both figures.

What this means, in overall population, is that Bucks County, at present a fifth class county on the basis of a population of 147,000 in the census of a year ago, stands to jump into the population of not only a fourth class, but a third class county, 250,000, long before the next census makes this official and gives the county the added authority intended to deal with the problems of community that size.

"I never have heard of anything comparable with the problems which the school authorities of Bucks County face in trying to keep up with such increases in enrollment as are now going on or are in sight," Dr. Haas declared. "There's nothing like it in the history of education. How these problems are going to be met in all their phases I don't know, but it is going to take a great deal of cooperation, and patience as well."

First point of interest visited during the tour was the huge new Central Bucks high school at Doylestown, built to accommodate 1,200 students, but probably to be overcrowded almost from the start—one of the largest non-metropolitan high schools ever built, a gigantic plant mostly all one-story, of the latest type of construction, and affording the students the last word in educational conveniences and advantages.

The Central Bucks school is in the final stages of construction, with much interior work to be completed, although it is hoped that at least part of it can be occupied next February.

Also visited was the new Pennsbury High School, most of which was put in service two weeks ago. When this building was planned a year and a half ago, it was on a basis of accommodating the area for years to come. Even before the steel plant was begun, phenomenal growth in that part of the county provided sufficient enrollment to strain its capacity. As things stand today, even before the last portions of the structure are complete, it will be overcrowded and up against the unhappy recourse of two-shift classes.

Calls were made at Fairless Hills and at Levittown, with sample houses being viewed at both projects.

The party also was conducted through the Fairless Plant, and after leaving it had a view of the torrent of automobiles which bursts daily over the tortured highway system of the Lower Bucks county area, engulfing it in a flood of cars fighting for position on narrow, curving roads.

Bucks County Safety Council is Formed

agencies, clubs, organizations and groups fighting traffic accidents."

Election of officers was as follows: Honorary chairman, County Commissioner Simon K. Moyer, Silverdale; chairman, John J. Madjen, Langhorne; vice-chairman, Robert N. Hoffman, safety director of the AAA; secretary, J. Paul Pedigo, Bristol; treasurer, Justice of the Peace B. Frank Brunner, Doylestown.

Directors: Harry Simpson, Morrisville; Dr. Charles H. Boehm, County Superintendent; J. Robert May, Langhorne, past president of the Bucks County Boroughs' Association; Councilman Walter R. Unangst, Quakertown, and Dana W. Criswell, supervisor of Employees Service, Industrial Relations, United States Steel.

Robert Cameron, public relations of the AAA, presented Mr. Harrows, who is also connected with the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

Executive Director Wood, speaking briefly, said that water and sewage are Bucks county's number one problems and that traffic and transportation are second on the list because of the rapid housing and industrial expansion in Falls township.

President Madjen said that the time of meetings will be determined by the executive committee, preferably in the early part of the week.

and the next meeting will be held some time early in 1952.

Three Bucks county garagemen, Messrs. Stahl, Alexander and Simpson, were praised by Vice-Chairman Hoffman for making possible to the schools three cars for driver training education with no cost to the school districts.

tempted to keep the flames under control. Her hair was singed in the attempt. Mr. Bailey arrived with fire extinguishers, and while attempting to control the blaze until the firemen arrived, the heater "blew up" in his face. Smoke covered his eye-glasses and flames singed him slightly.

With door to the kitchen kept closed, the blaze was confined to the laundry. Prey to the flames were an electric washer, a table, cleaning implements, and the children's toys. Some harm was also caused to the laundry tubs.

"Joey" refused to be consoled, his chief concern being that his toys had burned.

The house and contents are covered by insurance. It is stated.

Bristol firemen were summoned.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

CHICKEN is a popular meat these days when the pennies count. But chicken prepared in the conventional ways can become rather tiresome. For a delightful change, try this recipe for a Sunday dinner of tomato-glazed chicken recommended by the A & P Service for Homemakers.

Mix, then cook slowly for 30 minutes the following: One can of tomato soup, one can of tomato paste, one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, two bay leaves, one tablespoon of catsup, two cloves of garlic (cut fine), one-quarter teaspoon of salt and one-third cup of mayonnaise.

Pepper and salt a frying chicken weighing about three pounds before drawing, then cut it into serving pieces and arrange in a baking pan. Spoon a little sauce over each piece of chicken. After baking in a moderate oven for 30 minutes, turn the chicken and spoon on more sauce. Add a half cup of water to the remaining sauce and pour it into the baking pan. Continue to cook for another 30 minutes, or until the chicken is done.

Fix your favorite tossed salad—and for a change—try a celery seed dressing made of one-half cup of salad oil, two teaspoons of sugar, one-quarter teaspoon of celery seed and one tablespoon of catsup and four crumbled, butter-type crackers that have been rubbed with garlic.

An appropriate dessert would be a "peach queen." Dissolve one package of lemon-flavored gelatin in two cups of hot water; chill until syrupy. Arrange canned peach slices around the sides of six teacups or similarly shaped moulds. Place one and one-half cups of canned blackberries and spoon on the peach slices and spoon on the gelatin. Top the cups with a layer of more blackberries and chill until firm. Then unmold on a wreath of sliced peaches and top with whipped cream.

per given by Ladies Aid in Newport Road Community Chapel, 5 until 7 p. m.

Dec. 11—

Card party in K. of C. home, 8.30 p. m., sponsored by C. D. of A.

RECIPES

GLAZED BONELESS SHOULDER BUTT

2 to 4 pound smoked boneless shoulder butt
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar

2 tablespoons whole cloves
Place shoulder butt on a rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the meat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (350 degrees F.) until thermometer registers 160 degrees F. Allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound for roasting. About 30 minutes before butt is cooked, remove from oven and pour off drippings. Mix brown sugar, flour, mustard and vinegar. Spread on butt, and stick with cloves. Return to oven to finish cooking and glaze.

THANKSGIVING

The Pilgrims who inaugurated Thanksgiving Day left their homes to make the perilous trip across the Atlantic for more than a piece of land. They risked their lives and wealth to win the right to worship freely... to live democratically. It was on these basic principles of liberty that our great nation was founded. It was for these principles our forefathers fought so long and so valiantly.

We, who are the inheritors of this fine tradition, are faced by a threat now, too. So this Thanksgiving Day when we sit down to our laden tables to feast and give thanks to a benevolent Lord, let us add a determined resolution to rededicate ourselves to these democratic principles. Let us resolve to preserve for our children the very same freedom our forefathers fought to give us, freedom which has brought us such abundance.

Hold Inquest in Brennan Death in Phila. in 10 Days

Early Sunday morning, left the Wm. Murphy funeral parlors on Jefferson avenue, at seven o'clock. Throughout yesterday and last evening many called at the funeral parlors to pay their respects.

Mr. Brennan was attired in a tan suit as he lay in the flower-banked casket. At his head was a large basket of blooms sent by his wife; while the garland of red roses just inside the lid was from his 13-year-old daughter, Dardyn. A double-spray of large, golden-toned chrysanthemums across the top of the casket was provided by the four sisters. Among the numerous floral offerings were a clock design from Bristol Lodge, No. 970, R. P. O. Elks; a harp from the Ancient Order of Hibernians; and baskets from Ducks Lodge, No. 1169, Loyal Order of Moose, and Bristol Council, Knights of Columbus, all of which orders the deceased was a member.

Brennan, a veteran of army service, had sustained spinal injuries in an airplane crash prior to World War II.

The deceased was pronounced dead upon arrival at Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, early Sunday morning. According to Bristol police, two bullets penetrated his body during a scuffle with Officer John Sackville over possession of his officer's service revolver after Mrs. Brennan sought refuge in the police car as he was cruising at about 3:30 Sunday morning in the vicinity of the Brennan home.

Officers Sackville and William Hamm had subdued Brennan, whom the officers state appeared to have gone berserk. It was while Hamm was telephoning for aid at the volume control on the police radio car having been knocked out that Brennan attempted to gain possession of the .38 revolver. It is alleged.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Harold C. Koch,
S. T. M., pastor Bristol
Methodist Church

Most gracious God, by whose appointment the seasons come and go, and who makest the fruits of the earth to minister to the needs of men; we offer Thee our thanksgivings that Thou hast brought us through the circuit of another year, and that according to Thy promise seedtime and harvest have not failed. At the remembrance of Thy bounty we offer unto Thee the sacrifices of our thanksgiving, and pray that Thou wilt feed our souls with the Bread of Life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

When a Child Has Bad Dreams

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

TERRORS in children by night are nurtured by day. This fact many parents seem to overlook. Accordingly, they may be most concerned with the sleep disturbances in the child, in themselves and others rather than with a long-time preventive and corrective program.

A mother writes of this problem:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have three children—4 years, 2½ years and 10 months. The two older ones wake up in the middle of the night with nightmares and, of course, they cry or scream loud enough to wake up the baby."

Reassure Child

Here in part is how I replied to this mother: As soon as either cries out in terror at night, you or Dad, preferably Dad, should go to him to reassure him that all is well. If the terror does not subside immediately, waken the child fully by applying a cold wet cloth or sponge to his hands or face.

It could be that the main problem is with one child, probably the older one. His crying out could set off the other child, especially if these children quarrel a great deal, particularly at bedtime.

Anyway, you should have both of them carefully checked physically by your physician and get his advice concerning their diet and eating habits.

Since they presumably must all sleep in the same room, it might be well to put the eldest one to bed in your room, trying to make him feel this is a privilege because he is "so big." At your bedtime, you could carry him asleep to his own bed.

Read to Eldest

Also, you could let him go to bed later than the second child and you and Dad, especially Dad, could read to him in the meanwhile. This would suggest to him that you consider him the eldest and biggest child.

Anything you parents can do then or by day to make him feel he is loved as much as the other children should make him feel more secure. Lack of security, or jealousy, can cause night terrors and poor sleep, as you know.

I hope you and the father consider ways of reducing your household burdens, finding, if possible, more money in your budget for modern equipment, especially in the kitchen. He probably will choose also to help you more about the house and in the care of the children by day and night. Too, you and Dad might try to relax more and have more good times with the children, finding better and better ways of managing them in a manner to lessen confusion and increase family serenity.

Real Affection

Be generous with expressions of endearment to those children. While some cuddling and caressing is desirable, real affection, especially to the older child comes through your smiles and quiet tones, your patient waiting and listening as they talk, your answering their questions and explaining things to them; also through your appreciation of their achievements at creative fun, however crude.

Get the older children to play more with other children of their respective ages, one or two at a time. Don't expect them to be their own sole playmates.

Keep the radio and television silent most of the time while they are awake and protect them from fears and undue excitement. (My bulletins, "Fears," and "The Nervous Child" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

Bensalem Man Speaks At Youth Fellowship Rally

Approximately 65 attended a rally of Bristol Group Methodist Youth Fellowship in the form of a booth festival last evening in Newtown Methodist Church.

Miss Laura Jane Bennett, Yardley, led the worship service. Speaker of the evening was Harry Carter, Bensalem, who spoke concerning "Thanksgiving."

The business meeting was led by Miss Ethel Keller, Newtown, vice-president, in the absence of the president, William Vansant, Bensalem.

Croydon and Bensalem were awarded the 1st and 2nd attendance banners respectively.

Six booths had been arranged attractively with food articles all to be sent to 5th Street Mission in Philadelphia. Following the judging, it was decided Newtown placed 1st—"Horn of Plenty"; Croydon, 2nd—"Family Giving Thanks" and Yardley 3rd—"Rainbow". Other booths were displayed by Bensalem, Hulmeville and Emille. The value of the entire display was approximately $120.

The next "hymn sing" will be at Croydon, Dec. 2nd. The Christmas Rally is scheduled for Dec. 18th at Croydon Methodist church when a Christmas pageant will be presented.

Raymond Inglin, Bensalem, was elected 4th Commissioner to replace Miss Carol Loabe, Morrisville, who has moved from the area.

Following adjournment, the group proceeded to Wesley Hall where refreshments were served by the host church.

KOMINFORM MEETS

PARIS — (INS) — Paris exile sources claimed today that Anna Pauker, Romanian foreign minister and Communist leader, was called to Moscow for a secret meeting of the Kominform. Actions to be taken against Tito's government in Yugoslavia reportedly were discussed by the Kominform leaders.

Fast Game Lands Development Program Interests Hunters

In past summers, sportsmen have been invited to visit State Game Lands to see what the Game Commission has done to develop food and cover for wildlife through the use of hunter license monies. Now, hunters who travel over these holdings in search of forest wildlife are urged to observe the results of game habitat work there as an interesting side-light that will enhance any hunting trip.

The larger part of the food and cover work has been done in wooded big game country, where most of the game lands lie. In addition, much work has been done on game lands adjoining farm areas, land composed primarily of crop land purchased in recent years. Most of these properties, as well as recently-created food strips, lie adjacent to wooded areas, where various management practices primarily beneficial to forest game species have been put into effect. In addition to providing better homes for forest creatures, these developments encourage farm-game species to make their abode there, to provide sport for hunters. Newcomers to State Game Lands will be agreeably surprised at seeing such modern land practices as contour farming employed.

Even the casual observer, as he skirts field edges, walks along game lands, roads or strikes through the timber, will note these game habitat developments: cuttings which develop desirable food and cover adjacent to timber and which all wildlife use, particularly when the young need openings with protective cover nearby; bulldozed areas and forest thinnings to permit sunlight to reach the ground and promote the growth of natural foods, grains and grasses planted on the areas to provide supplemental foods for all wildlife, and insect life for game birds; and young, food-bearing, vines, shrubs and trees recently planted. This comprehensive food and cover development program is tremendous. It is being carried out on 196 State Game Lands in Pennsylvania, the total area of which is over 900,000 acres. Therefore, the observing hunter must multiply what he sees by many times to attain a true picture of the magnitude of the undertaking. Then, of course, there are many plantings in their infancy. Valuable as they will later be to wildlife, they are not apparent as yet.

Early Small Game Season Returns

Reports from Game Commission field men and hunters indicate better-filled game bags per gunner in the early days of the 1951 small game season but less hunting pressure than in 1950. Hunters in the armed services, the demands of wartime industry and inclement weather are given as the probable reasons for lessened gun pressure this fall.

Over much of Pennsylvania, cottontail rabbits appeared in smaller supply than was anticipated. Colder weather will likely bring more of these popular game animals out for late season sport.

The high ringneck pheasant population and good shooting predictions have been borne out wherever these game birds are found. Gray squirrels continue to be unpredictable, as they move from places of low food supply to others in search of nuts. Bushytails are variously reported "about as in 1950", or "a little less plentiful", or "increased one-half over last year", depending on location.

Wild turkey reports from most parts of the state continue to indicate an increase and expansion of the flock, with hunters having considerably more success in bringing down turkeys than in any recent year.

Generally, grouse are said to be more plentiful than in 1950, and the per hunter take of "thunderbirds" has increased this season over last.

From all indications, a greater supply of small game generally remains in the covers than is usually the case in mid-season.

Female Deer Emulates Lady Channel Swimmers

Eric County game protector Clair W. Dinger repeats this story told him by a Lake Erie fisherman.

"Early one August morning, a commercial fish tug was making the daily rounds of its nets when crew members saw something swimming away from the shore. Curious, they cruised in the direction of the object and found it to be a doe deer. Despite the fact that she was about a mile and a half off the Pennsylvania shore, the deer was still swimming strongly and seemed in no need of help. However, if she had continued, she still had about forty miles to go before reaching Canada.

"The fishermen considered this a bit far, so they got a rope around the doe and pulled her aboard. She started to kick and raise a fuss, so they got more rope and tied her securely to the deck. When they had finished their work at the nets the men brought the deer ashore and turned her loose, apparently none the worse for her long swim in Lake Erie.

Deer Season Ends

Those who hunt migratory waterfowl are reminded that the Pennsylvania duck and goose season ends one hour before sunset on Saturday, November 24.

Philadelphia Deer "Herd" Produces Commuter

Judging from reports emanating from Philadelphia recently, unsuccessful deer hunters may decide they could have had better success in the state's largest city this year than in the "big woods" of Pennsylvania. Game Protector Donald L. Croft, Horsham, tells "About 3:00 a. m., on the morning of October 30, an eight-point buck deer appeared in a yard near 25th Westmoreland Street, Philadelphia. The confused deer went up Broad Street where motorists stopped and gave it plenty of room. At Erie Avenue the buck clattered down a subway entrance onto the northbound concourse, where the turnstiles blocked its flight. The subway patrons were pushed aside while a policeman shot and killed the deer." A United Press story on the incident says: "Some 30 policemen had chased the deer for two miles through city streets, hoping to catch it alive."

Year's Hunting Casualties

Unofficial figures on the number of hunters who fell gunfire victims during the first 9 days of the 1951 small game season are: fatalities, 3; injuries, 131.

This brings the totals to 9 fatal and 175 non-fatal cases due to gunfire while hunting this calendar year in Pennsylvania.

Bounties Paid On Predators in Last 5 Months

Bounties paid from the Game Fund on noxious birds and animals over the last 5 months, June through October, were $63,184, as compared to $12,769 over the same period in 1950. The number of animals and birds successfully proscribed in these like periods follows:

	1951	1950
Weasels ($1.00 each)	1934	1246
Gray Foxes ($4.00 each)	6084	2177
Great Horned Owls ($5.00 each)	570	565

Between June 1 and October 31 this year a $4.00 bounty was paid on 8,741 red foxes. There was no bounty on reds in 1950.

In October of this year, an excellent trapping month, bounty payments were made on the following: weasels, 233; gray foxes, 3228; red foxes, 3713; great horned owls, 142, for a total of $28,767.

BASKETBALL OFFICIALS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Lower Bucks County Basketball Officials Association this evening at 7:30 in the Elks' Home, Radcliffe street. All prospective officials are welcome. Instruction will be given for the P. I. A. A. test to be given on December 19th, at Norristown.

SOUTHAMPTON-COUNCIL ROCK

Southampton High and Council Rock High will meet tomorrow afternoon in their annual Thanksgiving Day contest. The game will be played on Playwick field, Langhorne, starting at two o'clock. Southampton will be seeking its first win of the season.

NESHAMINY AND OWLS TO MEET IN GRID CLASSIC

LANGHORNE, Nov. 21—The annual Turkey Day football classic between Bensalem Township High and Neshaminy High will be played tomorrow morning with the opening kickoff at 10 o'clock. The largest crowd of the season is expected even though neither team has a chance for the Lower Bucks grid crown. The game will be played on Playwick field, here.

Coach Marion VanHorn's Owls are the favorites, having won their last four games since tying Morrisville. Bensalem has won five games, lost two, and tied one. The defeat handed the Owls by Council Rock probably will cost them the title or a tie for the championship.

Bensalem's starting lineup will most likely be composed of: Ends, Jim Bristow and Al Dominiani; tackles, Bob Bristow and Dick Glyd; guards, Dick Scott and Les Lane; center, Lou Uslin; backs, Bob Whitfield, Al Parker, Carl Arnold, and Joe Mikelaitis.

Coach Jim Egli, of Neshaminy, will use at ends, Al Hofmann and Firman Lex; tackles, Jim Simpson and Anthony Peale; guards, Don Leitch and Wes Galloway; center, Kall Rion; backs, Al Wachendorf, Lou Maurer, Ray Brodie, and Ken Kauffman.

CPL. DELLIA RETURNS HOME

Cpl. Vincent John Dellia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Dellia, 317 Penn street, arrived home Monday night after spending 14 months overseas—10 months in Korea and four months in Japan. Cpl. Dellia left the states Aug. 1, 1950. He served with the 31st Infantry, 7th Division, A Co. He enlisted in 1949. Cpl. Dellia reports he received frost bite in both feet in January, 1951.

WARRIORS SET TO BATTLE BULLDOGS TOMORROW

With the Lower Bucks County League title at stake, Bristol High and Morrisville High will clash tomorrow morning in their annual Thanksgiving Day game. The game will be played on the Robert Morris field, Morrisville, starting at 10:30 a. m.

It will be the 24th meeting of the Bulldogs-Warriors series which dates back to 1928. Bristol has won 13 games, lost six, and tied four. Last season's game ended 14-41 with Morrisville rallying in the second half to knot the count.

Morrisville's season record to date is four wins, two losses, and a tie. Bristol has won four and lost five. Morrisville is unbeaten in league competition with four wins and a tie. Bristol has four victories and one loss.

Morrisville and Bristol are the only two teams that can cop the crown. The Bulldogs can win the championship by beating or tying the game. Bristol must defeat Morrisville to have ten points for the season, one more than the Bulldogs. Bensalem, defending champion, was eliminated as the result of Morrisville's win over Neshaminy last Saturday. Bensalem has seven points for the season.

It will mark the sixth time that a team coached by Gordon Davies will face Bristol. He has compiled a mark of two victories, 2 losses, and a tie. Coach Anthony D'Angelo was elevated to head coach of football at Bristol this season so he will be facing Morrisville for the first time, other than when he played for Bristol in his school days.

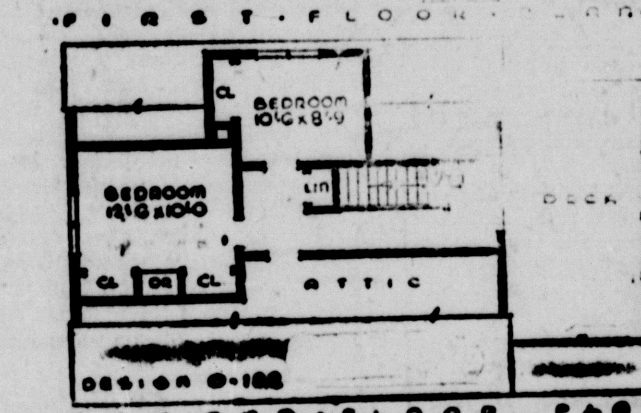

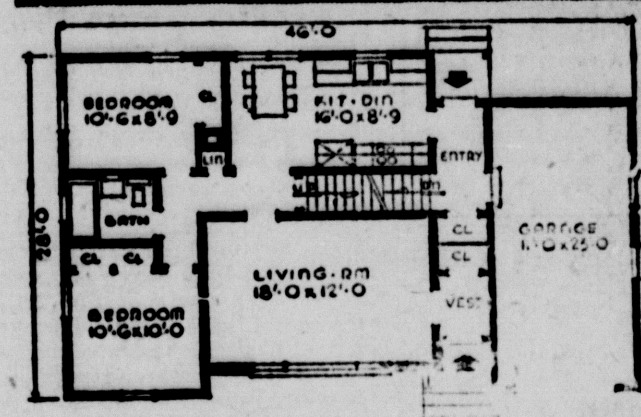

Tom Trout, a junior is on the injured list of Morrisville players and may not be able to see action against the Warriors.

Both coaches are predicting a victory and a close hard-fought game is expected.

Starting lineup numbers, and players of Bristol-Morrisville teams: Bristol—Bill Gillies (L. E. John Krysa 41; 42 Charlie Pritz L. T. Frank Gater 32; 19 Bob Kadar L. G. John Davis 22; 20 Dan Davis C. Tom Rohrer 16; 32 Bill White R. G. Jack Hoston 21; 34 F. Robins R. T. R. Bambach 31; 14 Jack Meehan R. E. Ed Kohler 42; 23 Les Gibbs Q.
